NEW QUESTION: 4
Which design concept is based on the principle of fluid resource pools?
A. Software-defined Storage
B. Adaptive infrastructure
C. Composable Infrastructure
D. The Idea Economy
Answer: C
Explanation:
Explanation/Reference:
Explanation:
HP Composable Infrastructure is designed around three core principles:
* Fluid resource pools effortlessly meet each application's changing needs by allowing for the composition and recomposition of single blocks of disaggregated compute, storage, and fabric infrastructure.
* Software-defined intelligence provides a single management interface to integrate operational silos and eliminate complexity. Workload templates speed deployment and frictionless change eliminates unnecessary downtime.
* Unified API provides a single interface to discover, search, inventory, configure, provision, update, and diagnose the composable infrastructure. A single line of code enables full infrastructure programmability and can provision the infrastructure required for an application.
